deny he was given immunity.

The government failed to convict Dr. DuBois despite the efforts of Rogge, on whom it placed its chief reliance.

IN THE PERIOD of Rogge's ascendancy as a seeming progressive and fighter for peace, he ran as a candidate for Surrogate in New York county, a $30,000 a year post. Surrogate William T. Collins, whom his law partner now presumes to advise on the Rosenberg children, holds one of two such county posts.

When he was badly beaten DuBois said Rogge "began cautiously seeking a way back from his exposed position as a liberal expressed in his book written in the election year [Our Vanishing Civil Liberties, 1948]."

Part of his retreat was expressed in neglecting his labor clientele. So seriously did he neglect his client, Harold Christofel, Wisconsin UAW leader, that the U.S. Court of Appeals in Washington declared "disciplinary action on account of such neglect ought to be considered" and referred the case to the Committee on Admissions and Grievances.

IN NOVEMBER, 1950, Rogge, who had been associated with the late Emanuel H. Bloch and William L. Patterson as attorneys for "The Trenton Six," then awaiting a new trial, quit the defense.

Earlier the three lawyers had been removed by County Judge Charles P. Hutchinson after Rogge called the Trenton case "a northern Scottsboro case." They had carried their battle for reinstatement to the Federal Courts, and the U.S. Court of Appeals had ordered Judge Hutchinson to review his action.

Four of the six framed Negroes were freed in the new trial. A fifth, Collis English, 28, died of a heart attack in jail. Ralph Cooper is the only victim remaining in jail.

On Feb. 17 five representatives of the New York City Department of Welfare and police entered the home of Ann and Abel Meeropol, 720 Riverside Dr., armed with a summons issued by Children's court Justice Jacob Panken, and demanded the immediate surrender of the Rosenberg boys.

According to the Meerpols they threatened to use force if necessary. Attorneys were reached by phone and obtained Judge Panken on the wire, who consented to their being brought before him in the morning from their foster home rather than being abducted at night.

Without any testimony on the charges in the complaint that the children were neglected, Judge Panken remanded them to a charity institution pending a hearing.

Supreme Court James B. M. McNally later ordered them removed and paroled to Mrs. Sophie Rosenberg pending a hearing on a writ of habeas corpus.

MEANWHILE the Department of Welfare, which supplied the information for the original charges, brought by New York Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, filed a petition in Surrogate's court to have a general guardian appointed.

With a jurisdictional dispute threatened, the three judges met secretly and decided the Surrogate's court would have jurisdiction. Surrogate Collins then declared in court, without hearing argument by counsel for the Meerpols and Mrs. Rosenberg on his jurisdiction, that he would rule on a guardian for their property March 26 and on a guardian over the boys April 5.

In an unusual action he asked anyone who had any recommendations to write them, thus throwing the children open to a sort of referendum.

The same day Rogge's law partner filed his affidavit.

SOME MONTHS before his sudden death Jan. 80, Bloch, defender of the Rosenbergs, who named him guardian of their boys, in an interview with this newspaper told of Tessie Greenglass' role as grandmother.

Shortly after her daughter's arrest she called Bloch's father, Alexander Bloch, and complained that the boys were unruly and she was old and not well and unless she had help would turn them over to city authorities, the younger Bloch said. At the time Alexander Bloch represented Ethel Rosenberg.

Mrs. Browder's Trial Being Taken Off Calendar

The Government moved yesterday to strike the perjury trial of Mrs. Raissa Browder, wife of Earl Browder, from the calendar after a defense report indicated she may never leave her sick bed again.

Browder and his wife were indicted by a Federal Grand Jury in 1952 and charged with lying as to their Communist Party affiliations in applying for U.S. citizenship for Mrs. Browder.

Defense counsel O. John Rogge informed Judge J. Skelly Wright that Mrs. Browder "may never leave her bed again."

The Government requested that her trial, which was scheduled to begin yesterday, be removed from the calendar, but asked the court for a trial date for Earl Browder.

When the defense opposed separate trials, the court set next Friday for oral arguments.

Rogge Tells Of Leftist Funds

Former Assistant U. S. Attorney General O. John Rogge told a New York State legislative committee Wednesday that $300,000 was reported collected throughout the nation for the defense of the "Trenton Six," but that less than $6,000 actually was turned over to defense counsels by the left-wing Civil Rights Congress.

ROGGE, A WELL-KNOWN lawyer in civil liberties cases, testifying before the Joint Legislative Committee on Charitable and Philanthropic Agencies and Organizations, said he was paid $5,000 for defending three of the six Negroes accused of murder in Trenton, N. J. In addition, he said, the CRC paid a local attorney $200.

This, Rogge testified, was the bulk of the legal expense in the defense of the "Trenton Six," despite estimates by the New Jersey Attorney-General that $300,000 had been raised for that purpose.

The committee heard Rogge in the first day of hearings to determine whether legislation is needed requiring fund-raising organizations to make a public accounting. Rogge said he "reluctantly" had come to the conclusion that such legislation was necessary.

CRC's Patterson Accused of Listing Known Contributors as Anonymous

William L. Patterson, executive secretary of the Civil Rights Congress, was accused today on the witness stand of committing forgery by listing known contributors to his organization as anonymous.

During Patterson's testimony before a joint legislative committee in the County Court House, Jacob J. Rosenblum, special committee counsel, asserted that the Congress had collected "nearly a million dollars" since 1948.

"I don't have any idea how much money was collected," Patterson said.

He refused under the Fifth Amendment to say whether he was a Communist and he invoked the same refuge when asked whether his records of contributions and disbursements were complete.

But during the examination about his organization's records, he said:

"If the counsel is intimating I turned money over to other sources, I categorically deny it."

Yesterday O. John Rogge, once counsel to the "Trenton Six," said the CRC spent less than $6,000 on that case although the New Jersey Attorney General estimated it collected $300,000 purportedly for their defense.

Bernard Tompkins, chief committee counsel, said he would show that most of the money went to defend the 11 top Communist leaders convicted of violating the Smith Act.

Rosenblum asserted that 80 to 90 per cent of the CRC's contributions were listed as anonymous. On Dec. 22 he said he sent a man to make a contribution to the organization and although he gave his name, the receipt he got listed him as "anonymous."

Asked why this was done Patterson said:

"To protect the rights and job tenure of those persons making contributions." He added, with a smile: "I thank you for the contribution."

"Didn't you know—you're a lawyer—that you were committing forgery in the third degree by making false entries in the books of an unincorporated business?" Rosenblum demanded.

"I didn't know that," Patterson answered. "Everything was recorded except the name and address."

Tompkins said the purpose of the hearings was to show that money ostensibly raised for philanthropic causes by certain organizations, including the CRC, was being diverted to subversive causes.

The Civil Rights Congress is on the Attorney General's subversive list.

Rogge, a former Assistant U. S. Attorney General who has defended civil rights cases, told the committee that after he won the retrial for the "Trenton Six's" first conviction, he told Patterson the cost of the retrial would be $10,000.

He said Patterson told him the CRC didn't have the money, and could not even pay its staff for the following week.

The retrial costs of the six Negroes convicted of the holdup slaying of a Trenton grocer were paid by the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People, the American Civil Liberties Union, the Princeton Committee and the State of New Jersey.

Four of the accused were acquitted at their second trial, one died in jail awaiting his third trial, and the sixth, again convicted at his third trial and sentenced to six to 10 years, was freed on the basis of time already served.

Rogge said he had "reluctantly come to the conclusion that some form of remedial legislation" was needed to curb the abuse of funds raised for philanthropic causes.

Front Money

A year ago the New York State Legislature passed a law requiring charitable and philanthropic agencies to register with the State Department of Social Welfare, listing officers and filing authorization of sponsors for the use of their names. The law also requires annual financial statements listing contributions and expenditures. The deadline for registering was last Sept. 1.

Three organizations listed by the United States Attorney General as subversive were among those that failed to register. A court has rejected their contention that they are not charitable or philanthropic but no further action had been taken. Last week a joint legislative committee, in three days of public hearings in New York City, disclosed the results of an investigation of these three organizations. Many charges were placed in the record. The organizations offered no general reply; their officers pleaded the Fifth Amendment in refusing to testify on financial matters or Communist connections. These were the principal charges:

That the Civil Rights Congress collected toward or $1,000,000, the bulk of which was used for purposes other than those for which it was collected. A report by the New Jersey Attorney General said that the congress had collected $300,000 for the defense of the "Trenton Six"—Negroes accused of the murder of a shopkeeper, five of whom were ultimately cleared. O. John Roxx, who has served as counsel in a number of civil rights cases and defended the Trenton Six, said the congress had spent less than $6,000 on the case.

That the American Committee for the Foreign Born raised more than $1,000,000 using as sponsors the names of Cordell Hull, the late Wendell Willkie, among others, but had helped only Communists.

That the Joint Anti-Fascist Refugee Committee collected $1,500,000 on behalf of Spanish Loyalist refugees "but used less than 10 percent" for that purpose.

The committee made it plain that it is seeking means of strengthening the law. It is expected to propose, among other things, amendments to prevent such organizations from collecting money under false pretenses, to close a loophole in the law under which they cannot be compelled to produce financial re-

LETTER TO DIRECTOR
NY 100-95350

This image shows a document page that has been heavily redacted. There are six prominent, thick horizontal black bars placed across the page. These bars are irregular in shape, suggesting they were applied with a brush or a similar tool. The rest of the page is white, with some very faint, illegible markings that appear to be bleed-through from the reverse side of the paper. The overall effect is one of extreme confidentiality or protection of sensitive information.

On 9/12/57, AUSA THOMAS BOLAN, SDNY, advised SA WILLIAM L. MC MURRAY, JR., that, since he had received no written confirmation from the Department of Justice concerning the Department's decision to drop prosecution of BROWDER, he called the Department and was informed that the BROWDER case was still under consideration. Mr. BOLAN stated he would see to it that the NYO was advised as soon as the Department gave written notice of its decision to proceed with or drop prosecution of BROWDER.

On 9/13/57, Mr. BOLAN advised SA BERNARD T. MC CABE that, on that date, BROWDER, through O. JOHN ROGGE, his attorney, had applied for permission to make six trips to Rutgers University, New Brunswick, NJ, during November, 1957. Mr. BOLAN stated it was his opinion that permission would be granted BROWDER to make these trips.

The NYO will maintain contact with the Office of the USA, SDNY, to insure that the Bureau is promptly advised of the Department's decision in the BROWDER case.

Recylists 7/3/57 and 8/22/57.

On 9/12/57, ADA THOMAS BOLAN, SDNY, advised SA WILLIAM L. MC MURRAY, JR., that, since he had received no written confirmation from the Department of Justice concerning the Department's decision to drop prosecution of BROWDER, he called the Department and was informed that the BROWDER case was still under consideration. Mr. BOLAN stated he would see to it that the NYO was advised as soon as the Department gave written notice of its decision to proceed with or drop prosecution of BROWDER.

On 9/13/57, Mr. BOLAN advised SA BERNARD T. MC CABE that, on that date, BROWDER, through O. JOHN ROGGE, his attorney, had applied for permission to make six trips to Rutgers University, New Brunswick, NJ, during November, 1957. Mr. BOLAN stated it was his opinion that permission would be granted BROWDER to make these trips.

The NYO will maintain contact with the Office of the USA, SDNY, to insure that the Bureau is promptly advised of the Department's decision in the BROWDER case.
